The Microsoft case has dragged on entirely too long. In this period of major lay offs and many people becoming termed the "poor" please see to it that the lawyers get no more and that money spent on this litigation will be freed up to be in circulation and to help those who need it. I think Microsoft has done a superior job to bring the computer into almost every home and has made it affordable. Why should they be penalized for doing exactly what we have encouraged people to do.
